Jodie Whittaker and Joseph Fiennes star in a new drama about how Sir Gareth Southgate transformed England's losing mentality

Straight SHOOTER

NEW DRAMA

Dear England

Sunday & Holiday Monday, 9pm, BBC1

Coaching the England team

Joseph Fiennes makes for a spookily similar Sir Gareth Southgate in BBC1's much-anticipated drama Dear England, based on the acclaimed, award-winning stage play.

The series follows Southgate as he becomes England coach in 2016, with the team never having won a penalty shoot-out at a World Cup. Southgate is still haunted by his own Euro 96 penalty miss – a kick that cost England a place in the final – and takes over a young squad under intense media scrutiny.

But gradually Southgate begins to turn things around under captain Harry Kane (Will Antenbring) and with the help of sports psychologist Pippa Grange (Jodie Whittaker).

What follows is a four-part fictionalised account of the team's struggles and successes during the waistcoated gaffer's tenure, with imagined reconstructions of what unfolded in the dressing room, interspersed with archive footage of tournaments including the 2018 World Cup.

Meanwhile, as the drama progresses, it also touches on topics like the pandemic, racism, masculinity and what it's like for football stars to live under the constant pressure of fervent national expectation.

Sherwood screenwriter James Graham wrote Dear England as a stage play, with the title coming from the open letter Southgate wrote to England fans in 2021 during the pandemic. Starring Fiennes, the play opened to critical acclaim at the National Theatre, before transferring to the West End.

Here, The Handmaid's Tale favourite Fiennes, who turns 56 on 27 May, and former Doctor Who star Whittaker, 43, give a preview of what's in store…

Jodie Whittaker as Pippa Grange

What can you tell us about this series?

Fiennes It's a fictitious look behind the doors, but we also get into grittier subjects, like racism, male toxicity and national identity. It's positioned at a time of political change and here's one man – Gareth Southgate – who's holding the line and providing the right type of leadership.

Did you have any doubts about portraying real-life figures?

Fiennes I did have a little apprehension. But I hope Southgate watches this series, because he's being celebrated for a type of leadership we rarely see. This is a man who went through a crisis in 1996, and he used that critical juncture in his life to move forward and deal with England's psychology.

Whittaker Straight away, I felt it was important to show Pippa's experience. This is a job she'd been doing for a long time, and I wanted it to be clear that she wasn't a 21-year-old star-struck by Harry Kane. She was a professional woman in her 40s who was bringing her skill set as a sports psychologist.

How did you go about transforming into your characters?

Fiennes I listened to countless podcasts and I watched way too much Sky Sports. At the time, I didn't get to meet the man himself, but I've met him since at an event for the King's Trust. I kind of fell apart a bit in that moment, but he was a gentleman, and I even asked for a selfie, which I rarely do!

Whittaker I had less pressure in terms of the mannerisms because Pippa's less well known, so I was in a freer space of exploration. But she has narrated her own audiobook, so I was able to immerse myself in that.

'I hope Southgate watches this, because he's being celebrated'

JOSEPH FIENNES

What was it like working with the young actors playing the England squad?

Fiennes They went to a footballing boot camp and spent a month at Tottenham's training ground. I really wanted to join, but I'm in my mid-50s, so who am I kidding? But we did bond, and I was always there as a sounding board. Not a gaffer, as such, but certainly someone who's got some experience in the acting game that I'm always happy to share.

Will you be watching this summer's World Cup?

Fiennes I've never actually seen England play live but I watch everything I can on TV, and I still remember Southgate's penalty miss like it was yesterday. So, yes, I'll be glued to the TV this summer.

Whittaker Weirdly, having played Pippa Grange, I feel like an expert when it comes to penalties now!

Dark web

Nicolas Cage is a private detective with a superhero secret in an action-packed Marvel thriller

NEW FROM prime video

NEW SUPERHERO DRAMA

Spider-Noir

From Wed 27 May, Prime Video

PI Ben Reilly (Nicolas Cage)

Hollywood A-lister Nicolas Cage makes his TV debut when he stars in Prime Video's Spider-Noir, a Marvel eight-parter that combines shadowy film noir with a twist on the Spider-Man universe – in a series that can be watched either in black and white or colour (see panel, right).

Cage plays Ben Reilly, a down-on-his-luck private eye in 1930s New York, who has turned his back on his web-slinging days as superhero The Spider.

The ageing investigator – who is a genetic clone of Spider-Man Peter Parker – is grief-stricken by the death of his other half, and no longer wants the responsibility or the pain of fighting baddies.

However, his tenacious reporter best friend Robbie Robertson (Fargo's Lamorne Morris) pleads with the PI to put his mask back on so he can bring down murderous Mob boss Silvermane (Mr. Mercedes' Brendan Gleeson), who's got a chokehold on the city.

'Robbie's the guy who's trying to get Ben activated,' explains Morris, 42. 'There's a moment in the series where he says to Ben that people could use a hero and how it would be great if Spider-Man just came from the sky and said he was going to fix it.'

Ben begins a potential journey back to his old life as The Spider when he's hired by alluring singer Cat Hardy (Sinners actor Li Jun Li), the star attraction at New York's premier nightclub.

'Cat is the femme fatale of Spider-Noir,' says Li, 42. 'She and Ben see something of themselves in each other. They're both smart and quick-witted. They find each other very intriguing because it's the first time they've met their match.'

Assisting Ben in his investigations is his loyal secretary Janet Ruiz, played by Swarm's Karen Rodriguez, who gets many of the show's best lines as she berates Cage's character for his lack of drive in pursuing pay cheques to keep his detective agency afloat.

BRUTAL SHOWDOWN

'Janet is a character in the classic noir style,' says Rodriguez. 'She's very fun and keeps the office running. There's a tenderness underneath all the needling between Janet and Ben that I think you can feel.'

Meanwhile, viewers are also introduced to Cat's bodyguard, Flint Marko, a shapeshifter known as Sandman, who has the ability to turn himself into sand.

'There's a history between Flint and Cat,' explains Boardwalk Empire's Jack Huston, 43, who plays him. 'Flint is led by his emotions. There's a lot going on underneath the skin.'

In the opening episode, there's a spectacular rooftop fight scene between Flint and Ben. Huston is nearly 20 years younger than Cage, 62, but it was the younger man who wanted a break.

'I was complaining about every bone in my body hurting, but Nic was saying, "Let's go again!"' he grins.

Cage has revealed that his performance as Ben was partly inspired by Humphrey Bogart's portrayal of gumshoe Sam Spade in The Maltese Falcon (1942). The reference is sweet for Huston as his famous director grandfather, John Huston, shot the classic movie, which is often seen as the first noir.

'We were filming Spider-Noir on the backlot of Warner Bros and Universal, where my grandfather, over 70 years ago, was making The Maltese Falcon,' he smiles. 'We were surrounded by the spirits of all these amazing film-makers and actors, and I love that the movie was Nic's inspiration.'

The Spider returns

CAGE FIGHTER

The part of Ben Reilly might be Nicolas Cage's first TV role, but the Oscar-winning actor – whose film credits include Face/Off and Leaving Las Vegas – has previously voiced the character in Spider-Man: Into the Spider-Verse. He was tempted on to TV partly because the episodic format of the show reminds him of the way he read comic books as a child.

Superhero The Spider

'Comic books are by their nature episodic,' he says. 'As a child, I can remember reading so enthusiastically but very impatiently waiting for my next copy. I was so immersed in that universe. Television lends itself to that.'

Cage says he was also intrigued by the fact that viewers can watch Spider-Noir in black and white or in colour.

'Both versions are beautiful for different reasons,' says Cage. 'The colour is super-saturated and gorgeous, but I also want the audience to have the option of experiencing the concept in black and white. Maybe that would instil some interest in [younger viewers] to look at earlier movies and enjoy that as an art form as well.'

Zoe's husband is reluctant to attend the holiday, as he doesn't want his friends to inquire about his recent hospitalisation.

CRUEL summer

A group of friends face the holiday from hell in a darkly comic drama

NEW DRAMA

Two Weeks in August
Saturday, 9pm & 9.45pm, BBC1 (box set, BBC iPlayer)

A summer getaway on a remote Greek island turns into a nightmare for six friends in BBC1's darkly comic drama Two Weeks in August.

The group have grown distant recently due to their busy lives, so Jess (Antonia Thomas), who's married to actor Solomon (This Town's Nicholas Pinnock), takes charge by booking a villa where they can all reunite for a relaxing sun-soaked holiday. However, despite appearing to be the perfect couple, all is not well in the pair's relationship.

'Solomon and Jess put on a really united front,' says The Good Doctor star Thomas. 'They look like a well-oiled machine; they're just so successful. But behind closed doors, they're both pretty lonely. Solomon's often away working, so she's home on her own a lot. They have difficulty connecting on a deep level.'

Jessica Raine as Zoe

MONEY ISSUES

Married couple Zoe (The Devil's Hour's Jessica Raine) and Dan (Bergerac star Damien Molony) are the last to arrive at the villa, joining Solomon and Jess along with university friends Jacob (Twenty Twenty Six's Hugh Skinner) and Nat (I Hate Suzie's Leila Farzad). Although the initial big reunion is a happy moment, things quickly become rather uncomfortable for Zoe and Dan, who, unlike the rest of the group, are on a very tight budget.

'There are financial differences between the couples, and we don't see that very much on TV,' explains Raine, 44. 'We often see rich people going on holiday, but a lot of people are in that position where they're thinking, "I can't afford €200 for the kitty." There's a look Zoe and Dan give each other where they're obviously way out of their depth, and they don't feel able to say it.'

While the series is set in Greece, filming actually took place last year on location in Malta, where the conditions weren't always as warm and sunny as they appear on screen.

'We did the swimming-pool scenes at night-time in March,' recalls Molony, 42. 'The last thing anyone wants to hear is an actor complaining about a brilliant job, but it was very cold. We were supposed to be looking hot and sweaty, and instead it was a lot of hot-water bottles and Dryrobes!

'But Malta itself is a beautiful island, and after March, the temperature improved dramatically – it was blissful.'

boat trip, and Jess decides to swim to the shore to raise the alarm.

ILLICIT KISS

'She literally dives off the boat instead of having to face the situation, which is such brilliant writing and so funny,' says Thomas, 39. 'It was quite nerve-racking doing that, because it was in the middle of the scene, and we only had one go at it because of resets and hair and all that stuff. So there was quite a big deal being made out of it, and I was like, "Oh my God, if I get this wrong…" but luckily it was all right in the end.'

After an illicit kiss brings buried tensions to the fore, the holiday ultimately proves to be a life-changing experience for every character, and Molony believes that viewers will find the characters' situations relatable.

'I knew who these people were from the moment I read the script, and that's down to Catherine Shepherd's brilliant writing,' he says. 'It's so painfully real, and we've all been in these situations. Some of the things these people say to each other are so awful, but they're said with a smile, so you almost forgive them.'

DOCUMENTARY

Bear Grylls Is Running Wild

Tuesday, 9pm, Sky One

There are no rehearsals, second takes or stunt doubles for Hollywood A-lister Uma Thurman as she joins Bear Grylls in the Eryri Mountains, AKA Snowdonia, for this week's challenging episode of hit Sky One series Running Wild.

'I have no idea what's ahead of me,' admits Thurman, 56, as she joins the survivalist in the mountains. 'It's so funny being me and not having a character to play. I feel so naked and silly, but I can't resist the challenge of doing something new.'

Thurman's in for a particularly wild ride as Grylls plots a tough route across deep ravines and through icy lakes, as well as a nail-biting 250ft rappel down a cliff using a rope secured only by a boulder. He also challenges Thurman to overcome her claustrophobia by exploring an old mineshaft that lies deep beneath the mountains.

'I was a little scared of the rappel,' says the Boston-born star. 'But you work through the discomfort and find joy on the other side.'

> 'On a movie you get to rehearse something before you try it, but this is real'
> UMA THURMAN

Along the way, Thurman – who's known for her roles in films Dangerous Liaisons, Kill Bill and The Avengers, as well as the Paramount+ series Dexter: Resurrection – opens up about her childhood, growing up with undiagnosed dyslexia, becoming a mother and finding huge fame, aged 24, after landing a role in the 1994 Quentin Tarantino movie Pulp Fiction.

'I had a difficult work experience before I made that movie,' admits Thurman. 'I had a typical icky Hollywood experience, I lost my way and I was thinking of quitting, so Pulp Fiction was a gift. I didn't know it was going to be so big, though. I thought it was just a cool independent movie.'

DINING DISASTER

The biggest test for Thurman isn't the physical challenge of the hike, but having to watch Grylls remove his underpants to make a paraffin-soaked torch, and then cut out the tongue from a decomposing sheep's carcass and fry it over an open fire for their dinner.

'On a movie you get to rehearse something before you try it, but this is real,' she laughs. 'I'd kind of expected to eat some dreadful worm or something like that, but the dead sheep carcass tongue was quite something – it was disgusting. It smelt so bad and I totally failed to eat it!'

Vengeance: Murder on the Heath

Sun & Hol Mon, 9pm, C4 (box set, Channel 4 Streaming)

In 2011, Britain's Sikh community was rocked by the murder of a young TV executive in Blackheath, London. Now, that harrowing true story is being told in C4's two-part factual drama Vengeance: Murder on the Heath.

Drawing on police interviews, court transcripts and witness testimony, it explores the murder of Gagandip 'Gagan' Singh (Dee Ahluwalia) by his friend Harinder 'Ravi' Shoker after they both fell for the same young woman – 19-year-old medical student Mundill Mahil (Sasha Desouza-Willock).

NEW COMEDY

Make That Movie

Thursday, 10pm & 10.30pm, C4 (box set, Channel 4 Streaming)

Recently seen in Last One Laughing, zany Australian stand-up comedian Sam Campbell lands his own TV sitcom this week, playing a hotshot director who turns the extraordinary ideas of ordinary people into feature films in C4's Make That Movie.

'I'm playing a pretty exaggerated version of myself,' reveals Campbell, who also won the 16th series of Taskmaster in 2023. 'I really like high-concept ideas and this felt like a neat way to do a whole bunch of those within the sitcom structure.'

As the six-parter begins, Sam promises print-shop worker Mick Hall (Kim Noble) that he can bring Mick's film idea – about humans that turn into snakes – to life in just three days. So it's all hands on deck for Sam and his crack team: runner Jess (Lara Ricote), sound engineer Pat (Helen Bauer), cinematographer Winnie (This Country's David Hargreaves) and intimacy coordinator Sebastian (Aaron Chen).

Sam sets about turning Mick's mum, friends and co-workers into movie stars. As the premiere draws near, though, Sam realises regular people often don't make the best actors… and real snakes bite!

'Make That Movie is a bit like Ground Force – but instead of gardens, it's movies, instead of Alan Titchmarsh, it's Sam, and instead of reality TV, it's scripted,' grins director Joe Pelling.

Across the series, the team tackles a range of bizarre ideas including an epic sci-fi saga set in a care home, and the tale of a magical woodland creature who becomes a football team's most unlikely star.

WILD IMAGINATION

'A lot of them are genuine ideas I've had, only to be told I was something of a nutjob,' says Campbell. 'The film in the last episode – centred on a rescue mission – appeared to me in a dream.'

Campbell's comedy is best described as chaotic, surreal and unpredictable, and on Make That Movie anything can happen and probably will.

'A few choice ad libs made it in,' explains Campbell. 'I read a book by a director, who said you should always do one take with no dialogue at all, just the emotions. I would like to try that in future – a great reaction shot is priceless.'

details until I got the script, so it was quite an eye-opener for me,' says Holby City actor Laila Rouass, who plays Gagan's mother Tajinder.

VIOLENT REVENGE

Trouble begins when it's alleged that 21-year-old Gagan assaulted Mahil at student digs in Brighton. When Mahil confides what happened to Shoker, who was also in love with her, they hatch a plan to lure Gagan back to the student house in a 'honeytrap'. After a vicious beating leaves him unconscious, Gagan is placed in the boot of a car, driven back to London, and the car set on fire.

Mundill, Shoker and accomplice Darren Peters were all charged with murder – and received sentences ranging from six years to 22 years in prison.

The cast includes People Just Do Nothing's Asim Chaudhry as Gagan's friend and mentor Sonny, and A Suitable Boy's Shubham Saraf as barrister Aftab Jafferjee.

SHOCK EVENTS

'What surprised me about this story was just how deeply youngsters feel things and how quickly emotions can spiral and situations can get out of hand,' says Rouass, 54. 'Of course, there's right and wrong, but these relationships are complex and layered – when you're dealing with human emotions, not everything is black and white.'

BACK in the USSR

Rhys Ifans and Anna Maxwell Martin star in a Soviet-set spin-off from space-race saga For All Mankind

Alice Englert as Anastasia Belikova

Rhys Ifans as 'Chief Designer'

Anna Maxwell Martin as Lyudmilla Raskova

tv Star City

NEW Available: Friday 29 May Genre: Sci-fi Season: 1 Episodes: 8 (first two episodes from Friday 29 May, then weekly)

The creators of Apple TV's alternative-history drama For All Mankind are now venturing behind the Iron Curtain for a stellar new spin-off, retelling their imagined space-race story from a Soviet perspective.

Period thriller Star City launches back into the 'what if' universe where the Soviets beat the Americans to land the first man on the moon. Shifting the focus to the USSR in 1969, the eight-parter follows the inner workings of the titular secretive base, which houses and trains elite cosmonauts, engineers and intelligence officers.

Following their lunar triumph, the man behind the mission – known only as 'Chief Designer' (Rhys Ifans) – plans to propel the space programme further. But the formidable head of KGB surveillance, Lyudmilla Raskova (Anna Maxwell Martin), suspects a mole is passing information to the Americans.

'It's very telling that the Chief Designer doesn't have a name,' says House of the Dragon star Ifans, 58, of the character inspired by Soviet rocket engineer Sergei Korolev, whose identity was only revealed after his death in 1966.

'He's kept away from the public eye and is the embodiment of a state secret. He's protected because he holds all the information and knowledge required to go to space. He's also very intelligent, passionate, dogged and loyal. Nothing happens without him having a hand in it, or without him knowing about it.'

IRON CURTAIN THRILLS

The drama also follows cosmonauts Valya Mironov (Adam Nagaitis), Anastasia Belikova (Alice Englert) and Sasha Polivanov (Solly McLeod), plus Valya's wife, Tanya (Ruby Ashbourne Serkis).

Some key For All Mankind characters will appear as their younger selves, too. Look out for Sergei Nikulov (Josef Davies) as a Ground Control engineer and Irina Morozova (Agnes O'Casey) as a Star City secretary.

'Irina had a troubling start in life, which makes her power-hungry to take control over her own situation,' says Black Doves star O'Casey. 'She's divorced from her emotions and does things that some people may find deplorable, but she's in fight-or-flight mode.'

Meanwhile, the Chief is wary of Lyudmilla's iron grip, especially when no one escapes suspicion in her race to unmask the traitor.

'Lyudmilla's a badass,' says Ludwig star Maxwell Martin, 49. 'I studied World War Two and Russian history at university, so I already knew about the post-Tsarist regime. It's been a totalitarian regime for decades, so it's all tougher and harder. That's the world in which they live.'

John Travolta brings his passion for aviation to the small screen

Jeff and his mother Helen

tv Propeller One-Way Night Coach

NEW Available: Friday 29 May
Genre: Drama

Besides his acting, singing and dancing skills, 72-year-old Hollywood star John Travolta is also famously a pilot and aviation enthusiast who owns four planes. His love of flying inspired him to write the book Propeller One-Way Night Coach, about a boy's first flight, which he has now adapted into a film.

Travolta stars in and directs the story, which follows young Jeff (Clark Shotwell) and his mother Helen (Kelly Eviston-Quinnett) as they take a cross-country flight to Hollywood that will change the boy's life.

Based on his own boyhood fascination with planes, the tale was penned by the Pulp Fiction star as a gift to his family, and the film is also a family affair, with his daughter Ella Bleu Travolta playing flight attendant Doris, and his sister Ellen having a key role in the casting process.

'Ellen found Clark Shotwell and cast him in a Christmas show in Idaho that she does every year,' says Travolta. 'She called me and said: "If you ever do your movie, I think I've found the right actor."'

Besides Jeff's wide-eyed wonder at the glamorous new world of air travel, the trip also represents a significant journey for his actor mother Helen.

'Helen is chasing a new beginning, carrying equal parts hope and quiet fear,' explains producer Jason Berger. 'She's a woman projecting excitement for her son, while quietly navigating reinvention and her own sense of identity.'

SKY'S THE LIMIT

As the film is a period piece set in the golden age of aviation, sourcing the aircraft was one of the biggest challenges, and one Travolta, who narrates and features as a retiring captain, was able to help with.

'John owns a pristine, museum-quality Constellation, the four-propeller plane we feature in the film,' says Berger. 'It's one of only two that are functional in the world.'

The result, adds Berger, is a paean to a key moment in aviation history.

'We were honouring a specific moment when the world was crossing from propeller-engine travel to the jet age,' he says.

NEW Available: Friday 29 May Genre: Drama
Season: 1 Episodes: 5

Featuring stars such as Pelé, Jairzinho and Rivellino, the Brazil team that won the 1970 World Cup has gone down as one of the best in the history of football.

But their route to glory in Mexico was not a simple one and the tale of that campaign, which ended with them winning a historic third title, is told in this five-part drama.

It follows coach Mário Zagallo (Bruno Mazzeo) as he takes over an unsettled squad and helps them stay united both on and off the pitch as they chase glory.

According to director Pedro Morelli, the casting of the legendary Pelé was vital to the project and he found exactly the right actor in Lucas Agrícola.

'We were very happy,' says Morelli. 'Lucas plays football, acts well and he looks just like Pelé!'

The drama re-creates Brazil's 1-0 group-match win over England, as well as their 4-1 victory against Italy in the final.

'We replicated the iconic plays so it was exactly the same,' says Morelli. 'We had a super-professional team that did the choreography, but it was very challenging. I've filmed a lot of action scenes, but filming the matches was the most complex thing I'd ever done because, in soccer, the ball bounces in an uncontrollable way!'

Genre: Drama Season: 2 Episodes: 6

Pip and her pals

TV&Streaming Week is at a golf club near Bristol, where young detective Pip and her boyfriend and sleuthing sidekick Ravi are surreptitiously checking out a suspect's alibi.

We are on set watching filming for the second six-part series of drama A Good Girl's Guide to Murder, based again on Holly Jackson's novels.

After discovering how schoolgirl Andie Bell (India Lillie Davies) died in the first season, intrepid student Pip Fitz-Amobi (Emma Myers) – who lives with mum Leanne (Anna Maxwell Martin) and stepdad Victor (Gary Beadle) – has now made a podcast about her investigation.

VANISHING ACT

The fallout from the crime is still causing shock waves in the (fictional) community of Little Kilton, however. The killer – Andie's troubled sister Becca (Carla Woodcock) – is in prison, but cocky party boy Max Hastings (Henry Ashton) is awaiting trial for assaulting Becca, and Pip is due to give evidence.

But when another witness, musician Jamie (Eden H Davies) vanishes, can Pip and Ravi (Zain Iqbal) track him down or has something sinister occurred?

'After what she's gone through before and the can of worms she opened, Pip is hesitant, because she knows what's at stake,' says Myers, 24, as we chat during a break in filming.

During their desperate hunt for Jamie, Pip and Ravi encounter intriguing new faces including security guard Stanley (Misia Butler), Pip's neighbours Charlie and Flora (Jack Rowan and Anna Brindle), and Max's cousin Robin (Freddie England). But as the case takes some shocking turns, jeopardy strikes…

'Ravi supports Pip through every crazy moment,' shares Myers. 'But she gets herself into sticky situations. It's darker than Season 1. And she does morally grey things…'

Florida-born Myers hopes the series will return and she will get to film the third book in Jackson's trilogy.

'Doing the British accent again was hard,' she says. 'But the second I got back here, it returned.'

Tom Hanks narrates a major new series about World War Two

Fight for freedom

Nazi troops on the outskirts of Stalingrad

Pearl Harbor

NEW HISTORY

World War II with Tom Hanks

Tuesday, 9pm, 9.55pm & 10.50pm, Sky History

Tom Hanks brings viewers the most ambitious and comprehensive account of World War Two in TV history in Sky History's epic 20-part documentary series that charts the entire conflict.

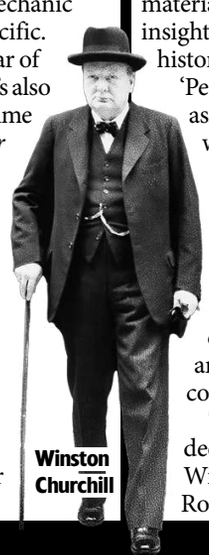
This week's opening three episodes focus on Germany's invasion of Poland, the devastating Blitz that brought carnage to the UK and Operation Barbarossa, which saw the Nazis invade the Soviet Union. Subsequent episodes cover every inch of the war – from the siege of Stalingrad to the surrender of Japan.

'The West was governed by a sense of what was right and wrong and that generation decided to take on the tyrants who wanted to enslave the world,' says Hanks, 69, whose father Amos was a US Naval mechanic who saw action in the Pacific.

The Oscar-winning star of Saving Private Ryan, who's also produced acclaimed wartime dramas Masters of the Air and Band of Brothers, says the conflict has shaped his whole life.

LIFE-CHANGING

'When I was a kid, everyone in my life had a perspective of the war,' he explains. 'Their lives were divided into thirds – before the war, during the war, and after the war – and their stories were part and parcel of daily life.'



Winston Churchill

The series draws on rarely seen archive material and insights from historians.

'People have asked me why we're doing this now,' says Hanks. 'Well, first of all, there's a ton of footage we've never seen. Not only are there new scenes, new celluloid, new imagery, they are also wrapped more in the context of the immediate time.'

The series blends the strategic decisions of the key leaders – Winston Churchill, Franklin D Roosevelt, Joseph Stalin and Adolf Hitler – with the experiences of ordinary soldiers and civilians caught up in the conflict.

'There is a type of story that can only come from the people who experienced it. We have that in droves in this series,' says Hanks. 'The lasting effects of the war on the world and on my own family are not lost on me and I am thrilled to produce this all-encompassing series.'

Zoe Ball discovers a heartbreaking prison story in her family tree

NEW FACTUAL

Who Do You Think You Are?

Tuesday, 9pm, BBC1

After Zoe Ball's parents split up when she was very young, she mainly grew up with her dad, legendary TV host Johnny Ball, and only reconnected with her mum, Julia, when she was a teenager.

But since losing Julia to cancer in 2024, the presenter has been eager to find out about her roots. In the opener of the new series of BBC1's Who Do You Think You Are?, she unearths tales of tragedy and triumphs over adversity within her family tree.

With dad Johnny Ball

STRUGGLES AND STRENGTH

'Mum and I became closer as I got older and she was always keen to look into her family history,' says Ball, 55. 'It was fascinating learning where she came from. But it made me sad that I wasn't able to share this experience with her.'

Ball explores the life of her maternal grandmother, Peggy, and discovers she spent time in a Newcastle psychiatric hospital in the 1960s and 1970s.

'It was interesting understanding how, due to Peggy's struggles, my mum missed out on time with her growing up. But I'm glad Peggy got the right treatment,' she says.

Then, on her maternal grandfather's line, she traces her three-times great-grandfather James Temby, who was incarcerated in Cornwall's Bodmin Jail with his mother Julia when he was a toddler in 1851.

'It's devastating to think of a two-year-old living in those conditions,' says Ball. 'Then they moved around so much to find work and feed their family.'

Meanwhile, on her paternal side, Ball uncovers Scottish heritage as she learns how her great-grandmother Catherine McMenemy grew up in poverty in Glasgow in the 1870s and had some family tragedies.

'Dad helped me to piece together my history, so it was special learning more about our family together,' she reflects. 'And it was lovely coming back with a family tree stretching from Scotland to Cornwall, along with stories of how resilient our ancestors were.'

Paddington 2* co-writer Simon Farnaby brings the cosily old-fashioned world of Enid Blyton into the smartphone era with this engaging family fantasy adventure based on the author's books about a magical tree that transports three children to a series of quirkily fantastical lands.

This modernised version sees the city-dwelling Thompson family relocate to the English countryside where househusband dad Andrew Garfield hopes to grow tomatoes and make pasta sauce now that breadwinner mum Claire Foy has lost her job.

Their kids (Delilah Bennett-Cardy, Phoenix Laroche, Billie Gadsdon) are horrified to be torn away from their electronic devices, but feel differently after Gadsdon finds the magical Faraway Tree and its enchanted inhabitants, including playful fairy Silky (Derry Girls' Nicola Coughlan), pompous Moonface (Nonso Anozie) and the eccentric Saucepan Man (Dustin Demri-Burns).

The children's adventures may be only mildly exciting, but the film scores strongly with a string of engaging comic turns from a gallery of familiar faces such as Jennifer Saunders, Lennie Henry and Michael Palin. 2026, U, 110MIN

Sleep

Saturday, 11.40pm, Film4 ★★★★

The marital bed becomes one woman's waking nightmare in this Korean chiller. When Lee Sun-kyun begins sleepwalking and uttering threats in the night, his wife Jung Yu-mi fears that he may hurt her and their newborn baby. 'Are you going to kill my daughter?' the terrified mother asks as he snoozes on the sofa. 'I don't know,' comes the chilling response. The film treats Sun-kyun's sleep disorder with the gravity of a demonic possession, with Yu-mi enlisting doctors and spiritualists to get to the bottom of his ailment. Shifting perspectives twist the narrative as the story enters its nerve-shredding finale, while the performances captivate as the walls close in. Confident and subversive, this movie is a carefully balanced twist on horror conventions. Subtitled. 2023, 15, 94MIN

MUSICAL BIOPIC

The Testament of Ann Lee

Available now, Disney+ ★★★★

Hear that Amanda Seyfried is starring in a musical and chances are you'll start humming Abba tunes, but this defiantly daring period biopic couldn't be further removed from Mamma Mia!. Seyfried plays the film's title role, an 18th-century mill worker who became the founding leader of a radically utopian new religious movement, the Shakers. Co-writer-director Mona Fastvold begins Lee's story with her harsh childhood in Manchester and shows the development of her spiritual beliefs under the influence of the so-called Shaking Quakers. Before long she is attracting her own followers with her charismatic preaching and leads them to travel to America, where they found a new sect based on gender, racial and social equality, as well as total celibacy. Fastvold conveys the Shakers' devotional fervour with ecstatic dance sequences – stunningly choreographed and set to rousing versions of old Shaker hymns – but it is ultimately Seyfried's passionately committed performance as Lee that makes this unmistakably odd film work. 2025, 15, 137MIN

What starts as an unexploded World War Two bomb discovered on a central London builing site cascades into a riotous – if ridiculously convoluted – heist and its fallout. To say too much would ruin the countless twists in this movie by director David Mackenzie (Hell or High Water), but the numerous characters – including bomb disposal expert Aaron Taylor-Johnson, criminals Theo James and Sam Worthington, and police chief Gugu Mbatha-Raw – will all have their part to play. The ending's rushed, but getting there is great fun. 2026, 15, 98MIN

A story involving domestic violence and coercive control comes with an incongruously glossy sheen in this take on Colleen Hoover's bestseller. Blake Lively plays Lily, who falls for handsome neurosurgeon Ryle (Justin Baldoni, also directing) despite warning signs of his volatile streak. With its high-end mentality, Baldoni's lush melodrama has a surface superficiality that is easily mockable, seeming rather too content to wallow in consumerist fantasy. Yet when it comes to the assaults its heroine endures, Christy Hall's screenplay is admirably astute, carrying a ring of emotional truth. 2024, 15, 125MIN

HORROR COMEDY

Ready or Not 2: Here I Come

Available now, buy or rent from digital stores, including Prime Video and Sky Store ★★★★

Kicking off immediately following the events of 2019's Ready or Not, this sequel has Samara Weaving's bride reeling from her carnage of a wedding night, in which she played a deadly game of hide-and-seek against her murderous new family. But the rich haven't finished their fun yet.

It turns out that her husband and in-laws were just one of a handful of impossibly wealthy, impossibly awful families around the globe who now need to fight for top spot to control the world (enjoy David Cronenberg's neat cameo to find out how far their power goes). But standing in their way is Weaving, along with her estranged sister (Kathryn Newton), so a quick kidnap later and the sisters are guests/targets of a murderous line-up of rich folks.

Directed again by Matt Bettinelli-Olpin and Tyler Gillett, this sequel is hugely entertaining and explosively gory with a non-stop stream of inventive deaths and fights, with a game cast that thoroughly enters into the spirit of it all. The film, though, belongs to Weaving and Newton, whose bickering and bonding ensures that we're cheering them on against their loathsome adversaries. 2026, 15, 108MIN

HISTORICAL

The King

Netflix ★★★★

A superb revisionist take on Shakespeare's telling of the rise and reign of Henry V, with Timothée Chalamet as Prince Hal. His transformation from dissolute wastrel to warrior king is now more of a tragedy than a heroic triumph, his earlier pacifism replaced by brutal statecraft. The film's Falstaff, played by Joel Edgerton, is another revelation – Hal's mentor is a shrewd, battle-scarred campaigner rather than Shakespeare's vain and cowardly fat knight. 2019, 15, 140MIN

CLASSIC MUSICAL

Funny Face

Sex ●●● Violence ●●● Language ●●●

The plot of this musical (revitalising a pre-war Gershwin musical romance) is dated, but it's still a charmer – and looks magnificent. On assignment in Paris, Fred Astaire is a photographer and Audrey Hepburn a bookworm-turned-model. The opening number, Think Pink!, is a great spoof on chic-fashion fads and colour-supplement journalism, while How Long Has This Been Going On? is another standout number. The running joke at the expense of the then trendy French philosophy Existentialism (here called 'Emphaticalism') is particularly good.

The third outing for Denzel Washington's CIA operative-turned-vigilante Robert McCall finds him living in southern Italy, where he crosses paths with Dakota Fanning's CIA agent to save the locals from the grip of the Mob. Series director Antoine Fuqua ensures the action is brutal, with a henchman taking a meat cleaver to the face before the film has barely begun. LIVE FOOTBALL

Sunday, kick-offs 4pm, Sky Sports

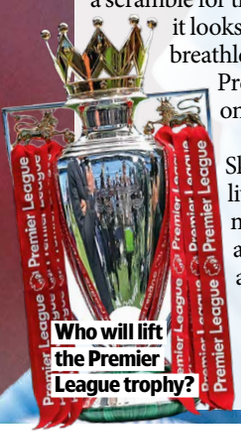
With an edge-of-the-seat title race and relegation battle, plus a scramble for the European places, it looks like it will be a breathless conclusion to the Premier League season on Sunday afternoon.

For the first time, Sky Sports is showing live coverage of all 10 matches as the twists and turns unfold in a day of drama.

At the top of the table, Arsenal and Manchester City have been locked in a two-way fight for the league title. The Gunners finish with a trip to south London to face a Crystal Palace side who will have one eye on the Conference League final (see panel, right), while City sign off at the Etihad against an Aston Villa squad returning home from their Europa League final in Istanbul.

Meanwhile, West Ham United and Tottenham Hotspur have been slugging it out over the past few weeks to avoid joining Wolves and Burnley in the Championship next season. If their duel goes to the final day, there will be plenty of cheers and tears as the Hammers take on a resurgent Leeds United and Spurs host an inconsistent Everton.

Sunday will also feature a raft of emotional farewells as the Kop pays tribute to the departing Mohamed Salah and Andy Robertson when Liverpool take on Brentford at Anfield. At the Etihad, John Stones and Bernardo Silva bring the curtain down on their trophy-laden careers at Manchester City, while Bournemouth boss Andoni Iraola takes his leave after a successful three-year tenure on the south coast as the Cherries travel to Nottingham Forest.



Who will lift the Premier League trophy?

After winning the FA Cup and Community Shield in 2025, Crystal Palace have the chance to lift another trophy on Wed (k-o 8pm, TNT Sports 1 & HBO Max) when the Eagles meet Rayo Vallecano in the Conference League final in Leipzig.

In his last match managing Palace, Oliver Glasner will want to leave on a high note, and with a formidable front line in Jean-Philippe Mateta, Ismaïla Sarr and Yéremy Pino, his team will start as favourites – but keeper Dean Henderson will need to beware the La Liga side's Brazilian forward Alemão.

WEMBLEY SHOWDOWNS

A lucrative place in the Premier League awaits the winners of the Championship play-off final at Wembley on Saturday (k-o 4.30pm, Sky Sports) as Hull City take on Southampton – though the match could be delayed by the 'Spygate' hearing.

The League One play-off final sees Stockport versus Bradford City or Bolton Wanderers on Sunday (k-o 1pm, Sky Sports), while in League Two, Salford City or Grimsby Town are up against Notts County or Chesterfield on Holiday Monday (k-o 3pm, Sky Sports).

After becoming the youngest man to complete a career Grand Slam by claiming the Australian Open title in February, two-time French Open champion Carlos Alcaraz is a major absence from this year's tournament. The 23-year-old Spaniard will miss Roland-Garros after failing to recover from an ongoing wrist injury, leaving the door open for his rival Jannik Sinner to claim his very own career Grand Slam in Paris. The 24-year-old Italian has looked unbeatable on a superb winning streak and will be confident of success after losing to Alcaraz in the 2025 final. In the women's singles, USA's reigning champion Coco Gauff has been inconsistent in recent weeks and faces a stern test from Poland's Iga Świątek, who is gunning for her fifth title.

Oleksandr Usyk v Rico Verhoeven

Saturday, DAZN Pay-Per-View

Just when you thought boxing couldn't get any more bizarre, world heavyweight champion Oleksandr Usyk puts his WBC belt on the line when he fights Dutch kickboxer Rico Verhoeven in front of the ancient Pyramids of Giza in Egypt. Verhoeven, 37, dominated his discipline for years before recently retiring, but has boxed professionally only once. 'For me, it's a challenge,' says Usyk, 39. 'Rico is a dangerous guy.'

European Champions Cup final

Saturday, kick-off 2.45pm, Premier Sports 1 & ITV4

As Leinster travel to Bilbao for their fourth final in five years, there is another French side standing in their way of the Champions Cup trophy after the Irish province lost to Top 14 sides between 2002 and 2024. This time, it's reigning champions Union Bordeaux Bègles aiming to prevent Leo Cullen's side from celebrating a first win since 2018. Four-time winners Leinster held off Toulon in their semi-final, with captain Caelan Doris among the try-scorers, while Yannick Bru's Bordeaux side – featuring Louis Bielle-Biarrey and Matthieu Jalibert – defeated Bath in the last four.

Diane Morgan and Sue Johnston star in a comedy about an offbeat robot

Here's an intriguing peek at quirky upcoming BBC1 comedy Ann Droid, which follows the surprising friendship between a robot and a pensioner.

The six-part series, airing this summer and set in 2029, is penned by Diane Morgan and Sarah Kendall and sees Morgan play the titular humanoid Linda – a second-hand AnnDroid Z58/100 Basic Eldercare Robot – whose role is to provide companionship for older people, enable them to keep their independence, and also check on their health to ease pressures on the NHS.

Linda is sent to the home of spirited Sue (Sue Johnston) – whose husband David died 18 months ago – after Sue's only son Michael (Paul Ready) decides to move out in a bid to resurrect his marriage.

SMART THINKING

But while Sue is initially exasperated by Linda's lack of social skills and overly intrusive manner, she soon realises the robot could help her do things around the home that Michael has neglected, and also assist her in winning some very important battles.

'I'm thrilled that the BBC has finally commissioned a programme about AI and how it will affect your mum,' says Morgan.

'And I'm thrilled to be back in the heart of BBC comedy,' adds Johnston. 'Diane and Sarah have created a comedy that will resonate with lots of different audiences, for different reasons.'

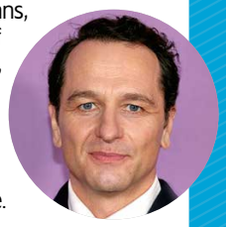
WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Matthew Rhys

BBC1's six-part 1970s-set factual drama Dragon Slayers will see the star play Harry Evans, one-time editor of The Sunday Times, whose team investigated the thalidomide scandal and Kim Philby's espionage.



Rafe Spall

The actor will star in Sky drama The Death of Sherlock Holmes, in which the sleuth looks into a murder in the Swiss Alps as he tries to recover his memory after his encounter with Professor Moriarty at the Reichenbach Falls.

Coming Back

Play for Today, 5's one-off dramas, will return for a second six-part series, with stars including Daniel Mays (right), Archie Panjabi and Johnny Vegas, and stories about wild campers, an exhausted nurse and a troubled priest.

Sky One's topical sketch show Saturday Night Live UK – a spin-off from the long-running US series and featuring rising comedy stars including Emma Sidi and Larry Dean – is returning for a 12-part second run in September.

Perfect for juicing, cooking, baking – or simply enjoying fresh.

Most citrus struggle in our climate, but this Sicilian orange is different. Bred for UK conditions, it produces abundant crops of seedless oranges packed with vitamin C – perfect for freshly squeezed juice, zesting into recipes, or adding to winter salads.

Your 4-year-old tree arrives nursery-fresh and ready to fruit THIS YEAR – you could be picking your first home-grown Sicilian oranges within months!

Growing in a pot makes winter care wonderfully straightforward – simply move it to a bright conservatory or indoors from October to May. During summer months, it thrives outdoors in a sunny spot, bringing genuine Mediterranean fragrance and charm to your patio.
